Chief Smith meets newly named Bossier Police Chief

Chief Wayne Smith and members of his command staff traveled to Bossier City today to meet the newly named Bossier City Police Chief, Daniel Haugen. The two offered encouraging words to our community and looked to expand upon the working relationship between Bossier City Police Department and the City of Shreveport Police Department.

Chief Smith stated that “the river is just another place to fish, we are all one community.” Chief Smith went on to explain the “those who commit crimes know no boundaries so we must work together for the common goal of keeping our community safe.”

Mayor Tommy Chandler and Sherriff Julian Whittington were also present and expressed their delight in all of the law enforcement agencies coming together to make our community safer.
